DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1 and 3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Rabelos, US Patent 3,349,425. An improved caster vibration-proof structure, that may be used in a suitcase, mainly comprises a caster base, said caster base having a placing part for a caster 25 to pivotally dispose on it, said placing part having a pair of corresponding positioning pivot parts 19 for a shaft 24 that stuck out from two sides of said caster to pivotally place on, each said positioning pivot part having an enclosed placing hole 20 disposed at a suitable place for placing an elastic element 26; two elastic elements 26 disposed inside said placing holes respectively, each said elastic element having a positioning section disposed at its one end for said shaft to insert into; a cover 21 fixedly (integrally) disposed on the outside of said placing parts of said caster base for covering and positioning said caster, accordingly, the present invention provides a simple caster vibration-proof structure, the elasticity of two said elastic elements can instantly apply on said shaft to enhance its vibration-proof stability, as claimed.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 2 and 4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Rabelos in view of Olsen, US Patent 968,790. Rabelos does not disclose an outer bushing as claimed. It is highly well known in the art of rotating members to utilize bushing elements as bearing members. Olsen teaches the general concept of such an outer bushing element C which functions in the claimed manner, for the purpose of providing a bearing between the spring and the axle shaft. It would have been obvious to modify the device of Rabelos to include such a bushing element, similarly to that taught by Olsen, for the purpose of providing a bearing between the spring and the axle shaft.
